by Inneke Slaper-Cortenbach

Ineke C.M. Slaper-Cortenbach is the director of both the Gene and Cell Therapy Facility and the Stem Cell Transplantation Laboratory at the University Medical Center Utrecht (UMC Utrecht) in the Netherlands. She has nearly 25 years of experience as laboratory director of a stem cell transplantation lab and her current focus is on Mesenchymal Stromal Cells and translational research.

At the UMC Utrecht, she works closely with investigators and clinicians from different divisions in the Regenerative Medicine Program.

She has been involved in several professional organizations and has served as the president and vice-president of JACIE (Joint Accreditation Committee of ISCT and EBMT). Since 2009, she has been a member of the Expert Group on Advanced Therapy Medicinal Products of the Medicines Evaluation Board (CBG) in the Netherlands. She is also the current chair of the International Cellular Therapy Coding and Labeling Advisory Group.

Advanced therapies: Hospital exemption, clinical trial applications, scientific advise, marketing authorisations: State of the art FAMHP - EMA ...
